

Department of Economics

Program Outcomes

Economics is a social science that studies how individuals, society and nation manages its use of scarce resources. Economics is fundamentally studied under the broader heads of Microeconomics and Macroeconomics. Microeconomics deals with the decision making at an individual level whereas Macroeconomics is concerned with the economy as whole. The course of economics designed by our University includes important papers like Microeconomics, Macroeconomics, Indian Economy, Statistical Methods, Economic Growth, Economic Thought, Mathematical Economics, Econometrics, Agricultural Economics, Industrial Economics, etc. Through general education, Generic Elective Subjects from other disciplines, Ability Enhancement Compulsory Courses and Skill Enhancement Courses and focused study the students are sensitized on issues related to gender discrimination, environment, Indian Constitution and national integration. The course is designed in such a fashion that the students get a chance to develop oral and written communication skills. The presentations and seminars conducted during the study period develop the Information and Communication Technology (ICT) and analytical skills among the students.

Program Specific Outcomes

Economics graduates may foray into exciting careers like economist, financial risk analyst, data analyst, economic researcher, investment analyst, actuary, financial consultant. It also enables the students to seek jobs in the tradition fields such as in defence services, administrative services, banking sector, insurance sector and managerial cadres.

Course Outcomes

- To develop analytical skills among students.
- To assist students to become better human being.
- To create an environment of economics where Karl Marx, Ricardo, Adam Smith, Keynes, Amartya Sen, etc. views regarding economics can be inculcated among the students.
-